Introduction

Product research is the single most important skill for any TikTok Shop seller. Pick the wrong product and you waste weeks of effort and ad spend. Pick the right one — with data — and you can scale to 6 or 7 figures. FastMoss is the most comprehensive TikTok product research tool available in 2026, covering 500M+ products with real sales data, trend charts, creator associations, and video performance metrics. This review covers exactly what FastMoss offers for product research and why it outperforms alternatives like Kalodata and Shoplus for serious sellers.

Why You Need a TikTok Shop Analytics Tool

- ■ Access 500M+ products with real GMV and units-sold data
- ■ Filter by growth rate, sales velocity, and category
- ■ See which creators are promoting each product and their GPM
- ■ View complete 1,200-day historical price and sales trends
- ■ Identify seasonal patterns to time your product launches perfectly
- ■ Catch trending products 3–5 weeks before mass saturation

Real-World Case Study

■ A TikTok Shop brand manager discovered a fast-rising home décor item using FastMoss's '7-day growth' filter. The product had 340% sales growth week-over-week with only 12 creators promoting it — a clear early-mover signal. They onboarded 20 creators, generated 1.8M views, and hit $85,000 GMV in 6 weeks.

Step-by-Step Tutorial: Getting Started with FastMoss

Step 1: Log into FastMoss and go to 'Product Research' section

Step 2: Select your target market (US, UK, Southeast Asia, etc.)

Step 3: Apply filters: Category > Growth Rate (7-day) > Min Sales > 500 units

Step 4: Sort results by 'Rising' to find emerging products

Step 5: Click a product to see its sales chart, creator list, and top videos

Step 6: Check the 'Saturation Score' — lower means more opportunity

Step 7: Review the price-to-GMV ratio to estimate profitability

Step 8: Save promising products to your watchlist for daily tracking

Step 9: Use Keyword Trends to find related search queries growing on TikTok

Step 10: Launch your product with data-backed confidence
